

SCULPTING THE VOID

MUSEUM OF CAPITALISM

Capitalism: An economic system based on private ownership of the means of production, based on supply and demand, a social system based on the principle of individual rights. Capitalism is now quite commonly used to describe the social system in which we now live.

01- Our problem is that Capitalism has been abused and is now associated with greed but in truth it is uplifting. the famous illusion of perception that oscillates between background and foreground making viewers see two opposing faces or a single vase - we are trying to raise this level of intellectual debate and to highlight the bright part of the social system - We need to demonstrate that statements like this below are untrue and it is only greed that has led to these angry falsehoods. about to see things differently - solids and voids have meanings.

02- It is important to define "Capitalism" correctly because a proper definition is a prerequisite to a proper defence - capitalism should be a poor child in Vietnam who can sell a sprite plastic bottle and convert it into a sculpture, if I sell bread at a reasonable price I'm still capitalist but I'm sharing my wealth.

03- the Whole is much more than its parts. the bigger picture become more valuable.

04- Capitalism is freedom. to have the chance to turn your dream into reality. to share and care. to have faith on our own abilities. to encourage the social interaction and connectivity between cultures.

05- Great accomplishments and many more things else will be true if we did not think of them as impossible. this is to foster the value of sustainability in all aspects - to travel by our world to a further and wider place.

01 - CONTROVERSIAL

02 - AMBITION

03 - PART TO WHOLE

04 - NEW DEFINITION

05 - SUSTAINABILITY
